Respond to Crisis

When Cyclone Amphan slammed into the coast of South Asia in 2020, Arjun and his family's home was severely damaged.

Employed as a carpenter, Arjun was the sole provider for his wife and child, as well as his entire extended family. After their roof blew off during the storm, Arjun and his family were left to the mercy of the weather, exposed to the elements and unable to take shelter from the heat or rain.

Then economic crisis came with the pandemic. The family was not only exposed to the elements; they were on the brink of starvation.

Because of your generosity, a Send Relief partner was able to provide temporary roofing materials, along with emergency food rations. And more importantly, they shared the hope of the gospel with Arjun's family. Today, Arjun has a personal relationship with God and the assurance that his family has food and a roof over their heads at night.

You can help more families like Arjun's recover after a natural disaster by giving temporary roofing, meals and other crisis response items today!

Help Kids

Jack was unsafe in his own home, so he was removed from his parents' care at a young age. He bounced from foster home to foster home, damaging his sense of security and family.

Finally, a new set of foster parents from Send Relief's Valdosta ministry center took Jack in and tried to help him heal from the years of neglect and uncertainty he had endured as a child.

As Jack struggled to acclimate to yet another new environment, his foster parents decided to surprise him by enrolling Jack at Valdosta's Camp Rock summer program. Jake made friends with kids his own age, discovered Jesus' love for him, learned important life skills and enrolled in a mentoring class.

This past year, Jack was able to successfully reunite with his biological family, who now attends church regularly and sends Jack back to Camp Rock events as often as possible.

When you gift a child with a summer at camp, you are helping traumatized kids rediscover the joy and wonder of childhood, build important community and heal from their past experiences. One summer can change a life, so give the gift of a fresh start today!

Provide Clean Water

Mr. Taher and his family were forced to leave their home, family and friends because of war.

Accompanied by his wife and five children, the family was placed in a small resettlement community in the Middle East where they would be less likely to experience discrimination and violence. After enduring all this hardship, the family still faced many challenges in their new community—the most difficult was finding clean water.

Mr. Taher had to hike across a major highway, dodging taxis and tractor trailers, just to reach a water source that was guarded by militant extremists who often threatened him and his children.

Because of your generosity, Send Relief was able to build a water well in this vulnerable community, allowing Mr. Taher to not only safely obtain water for cooking and cleaning, but also empowering his family to start growing healthy crops to make a steady income.

The gift of clean water is life-giving, and you have the power to help empower others by giving today!

Fight Human Trafficking

Norah woke up sprawled in a shopping cart on the side of the road in a strange city with no memory of what happened.

She had been drugged and assaulted and was at great risk of being trafficked again.

After receiving emergency medical care, she was connected with our New Orleans ministry center but was suspicious of their help. Then she was given a backpack of essentials—a change of clothes, snacks, socks, hygiene items and a blanket. This small gift made Norah feel seen and cared for. It established trust between Norah and the ministry center staff—trust that was necessary to help her further.

Our partner who helped Norah commented, “When someone has nothing, a little bit of everything helps them feel safe and secure.”

You can make the difference in a trafficking survivor’s life by providing a backpack of essentials during a time they need it the most.

Care for Refugees

The Rohingya people are the most persecuted minority group in the world.

Forced to flee their own country, many Rohingya families seek refuge in North America.

One such family showed up at a Send Relief ministry center, the children thin and frail and the mother, Tula, scared and shy. Tula's husband had recently passed away, leaving her to be the sole provider for their three children, and they were struggling financially. The children were hungry, and Tula was absolutely exhausted.

The first time our staff saw the family smile was when they received a welcome package with essential items like baby formula, groceries, toiletries, Bibles and fresh sets of clothes.

Giggling with glee, the children opened their gifts, and Tula became emotional expressing her gratitude. This was one of the first times they had been shown kindness in their new home country.

You can help newly arrived families feel welcomed and accepted in their new home by gifting them with a welcome basket just like Tula's!

Share Health Care

Walking home on her Lakota reservation, Aiyana tearfully told our Send Relief partner that, at just 27 years old, she may have to have all of her teeth pulled out due to debilitating nerve pain. Sadly, her story is not unique for Native Americans in South Dakota.

Her reservation, around 11,000 square miles, only has access to two dentists. As a result, the typical resident has an average of five teeth.

Thankfully, a Send Relief supporter donated much-needed dental equipment, and Send Relief was able to establish a permanent dentistry clinic to serve the reservation's most vulnerable. Now, more families in need have access to fully operational dental services and no longer have to worry about losing teeth every year.

Through your gifts, you can help more communities in need of dental care and health care!

Start a Small Business

The high cost and low availability of hygiene products in Venezuela makes it difficult, and often impossible, for those living in poverty to afford them. Women often feel shame when they have to use insufficient, makeshift products—or even go without.

Specifically focusing on women who were in precarious financial situations, Send Relief trained a community of Venezuelans to sew reusable feminine products—not only meeting their immediate physical needs, but also providing them with a source of work and future income!

Upon receiving her first paycheck from this project, Lisa began crying and said, “I am so thankful that now I can give God my tithe for the first time.”

Your gifts of sewing machines can empower more vulnerable woman like Lisa to live a life with dignity and a consistent income!

Sewing Machine

Many dream of open tailoring or sewing businesses of their own—they just need the opportunity to learn the trade! You can provide a sewing machine for job skills programs that will train individuals in new careers.
